

NACPA 2008 Annual Report

The National Association of Church Personnel Administrators (NACPA) originated in 1970 by the National Federation of Priests' Council (NFPC), is a national Catholic organization serving clergy, religious congregations of women & men, dioceses, parishes and other church-related organizations.

NACPA's Vision Statement:

- The Church will model to the world employment relationships that promote human dignity.
- Those employed by the Church will participate in decisions that affect them and they will receive just compensation.
- NACPA's members, board and staff will be leaders in providing quality standards of effective human resources practice, education and service.

Mission Statement

The National Association of Church Personnel Administrators advocates for workplace justice rooted in Gospel values.

To accomplish our mission we:

- promote comprehensive church personnel systems which integrate Catholic social teaching and sound management principles;
- strengthen working relationships among church leaders, ministers and employees;
- develop church personnel and human resource skills and competence;
- identify and address church and societal issues which affect the Church in its role as employer.
